I. INTRODUCTION

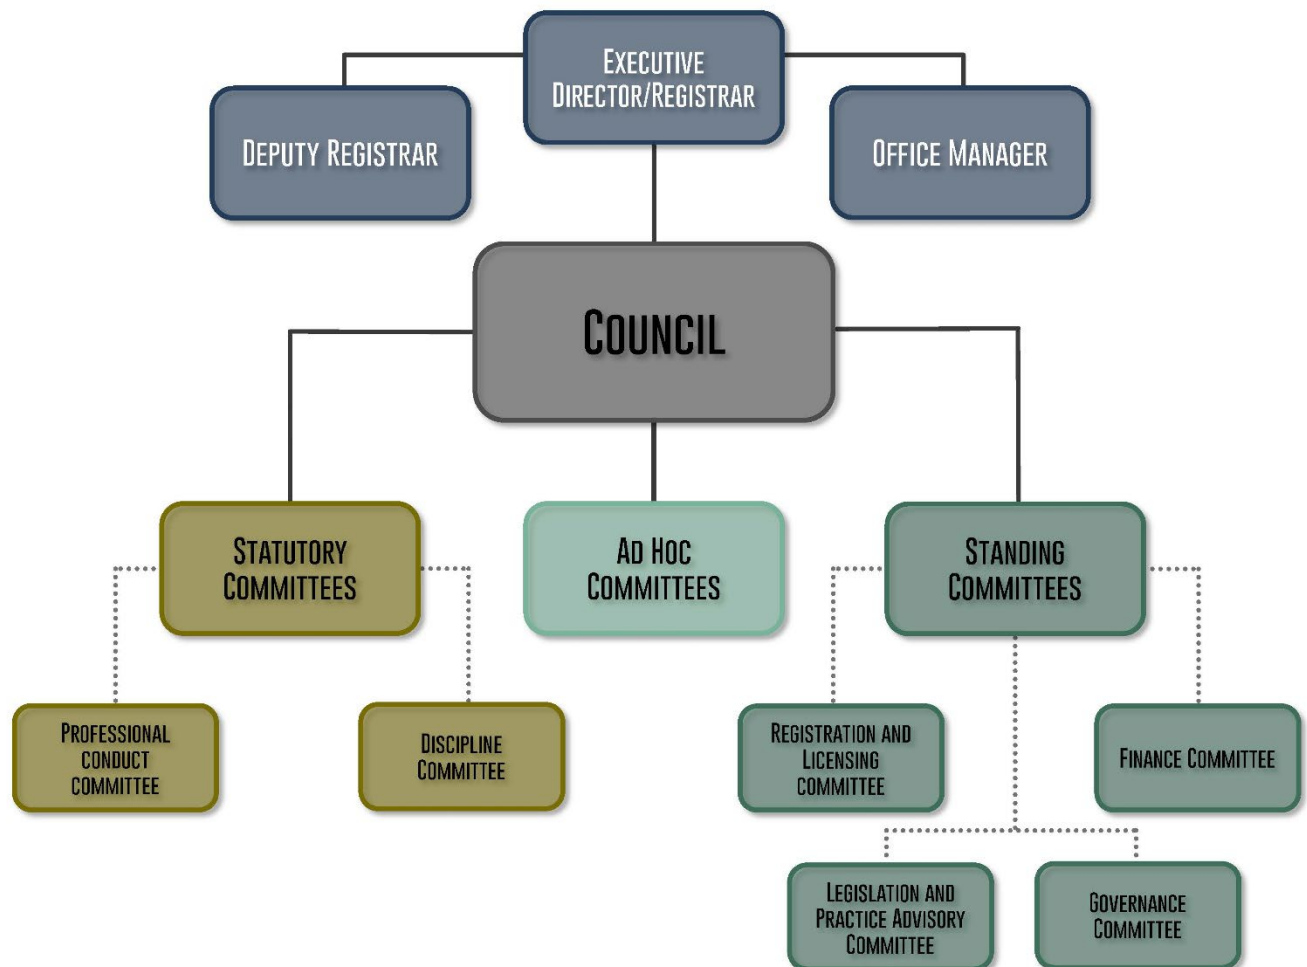

PURPOSE

The College of Speech-Language Pathologists and Audiologists of Saskatchewan (CSASK) Governance Manual highlights the primary governance practices, structures, documents and policies applicable to the college. The manual is intended primarily for the use and benefit of CSASK council members as they carry out their roles and responsibilities. In addition, this document may be a resource for all non-council members to consult when they are determining how they will function within and interact with the college. The CSASK council is committed to continually reviewing its governance processes to ensure ongoing growth and evolution of the organization, as a result the contents of this manual will be updated from time to time.

TIMELINE OF CSASK HISTORY

WHO WE ARE:

The CSASK Council consists of 8-9 members:

- 2-3 Public Representatives appointed by the Saskatchewan government;
- A Vice Chair, Chair, Past Chair; and
- 3 Council Members.

The CSASK Committees consist of:

- 2 statutory committees (Professional Conduct Committee and Discipline Committee) - established and maintained as a requirement under the Speech-Language Pathologists and Audiologists Act.
- Standing committees – established by the CSASK Bylaws
- Ad hoc committees

The CSASK Staff:

- The only staff member who reports to the council is the Executive Director/Registrar. All other staff members report to the Executive Director/Registrar.

WHAT WE DO:

Audiology and speech-language pathology are self-regulated professions in Canada. Regulation for these professions is provincial. In Saskatchewan, The College of Speech Language Pathologists and Audiologists of Saskatchewan (CSASK) is the provincial regulator for the professions of audiology and speech-language pathology. This means, in Saskatchewan, individuals must hold a valid licence to practise audiology and/or speech-language pathology.

DUTIES OF CSASK

- to serve and protect the public;
- to exercise its powers and discharge its responsibilities in the public interest and not in the interests of the members.

OBJECTS OF CSASK:

- to regulate the practice of the profession and to govern the members in accordance with the Act and the Bylaws;
- to assure the public of the knowledge, skill, proficiency and competency of members in the practice of the profession.

FURTHERMORE, THE COLLEGE MAY:

- establish, maintain and enforce standards for registration and of continuing competency and standards of practice for members;
 - establish, maintain and enforce a code of ethics for members;
 - approve programs of study and education courses for the purposes of registration requirements;
 - establish and maintain a continuing competency program to promote high practice standards among members; and
 - carry out any other regulatory activity that the college determines is consistent with its duty and objects.

II. SELF-REGULATING HEALTH PROFESSIONS

WHY PROFESSIONAL SELF-REGULATION MATTERS:

CSASK's right of self-regulation is a privilege as governed by The Speech-Language Pathologists and Audiologists Act. The Government of Saskatchewan has delegated the authority of its regulatory functions to the professions itself as they have the appropriate expertise regarding the practice of their respective professions to enable them to determine the qualifications necessary for licensure of registrants and to apply disciplinary measures when necessary. As a regulatory body, CSASK is accountable to the Government of Saskatchewan and ultimately to the Saskatchewan public.

SELF-REGULATING PROFESSIONS IN CANADA¹

"Self-regulating professions have a long history in Canada. In the pre-Confederation era, only the legal and medical professions were established to any significant extent. Other modern professions were in their infancy with individual practitioners forming small informal groups to provide professional support. As these groups became better organized, they began to lobby the Legislatures for the extension of self-governance to their particular professions. In the post-World War II era, there was a tremendous growth of all types of regulated professions, including health professionals, as governments recognized the advantages of delegating powers to specialized councils staffed by experts in the area.

Initially, the debate focused on the advantages of self-governance to the professions. However, in the 1960s and 1970s, the public's focus began to change and fundamental questions were asked. Is a self-regulating model for the professions in the best interest of the public? Are the rights of the individual adequately protected in a self-regulating model? A number of provinces conducted investigations into the self-regulating status of various professional organizations.² The studies and investigations determined that the self-governance model was the most appropriate for regulating professions. A common recommendation made was the need for greater emphasis on public accountability and on the protection of the rights of the individual health provider.

In recent years, the emergence of new health occupations, as well as the perceived status and economic benefits of self-regulation, have resulted in a growing interest for professional self-regulation legislation in Canada.

Further, as self-regulation has grown, there has been strong pressure from the public demanding greater accountability and transparency from self-regulating professions to ensure that these organizations serve the public interest rather than the interests of their members. Over the last few years there have been many inquiries and reports conducted in various jurisdictions (e.g., United Kingdom, New Zealand, British Columbia) looking at recommendations to modernize self-regulation to make it more efficient and effective."

SELF-REGULATING HEALTH PROFESSIONS IN SASKATCHEWAN¹

“Saskatchewan professional regulation dates back to the early years of the last century. Registered nurses, physicians and pharmacists were at the vanguard of Saskatchewan’s movement towards self-regulation.

As background, the Saskatchewan Registered Nurses Association (SRNA) is the regulator for registered nurses in Saskatchewan. Founded in 1917, the SRNA represents the largest group of regulated health professionals in the province with over 12,000 members. Other regulatory bodies include the Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons which was founded in 1905 and the Saskatchewan College of Pharmacy Professionals, which was founded in 1911.

Over the years, the number of self-regulating health professions in Saskatchewan has grown significantly. Currently, there are 28 self-regulated health professions in the province governed by 26 regulatory bodies. Several other health professions in Saskatchewan are exploring self-regulation. For additional information on self-regulating health professions in Saskatchewan, please visit Saskatchewan.ca at: <https://www.ehealthsask.ca/services/resources/establish-operate-practice/Pages/Health-Professional-Associations-and-Organizations.aspx>.”

The Saskatchewan based network of health regulators is called the Network of Interprofessional Regulatory Organizations.

ROLE OF THE PROVINCIAL GOVERNMENT¹

“The Ministry of Health respects the independence of its self-regulating health professions. While the provincial government assumes responsibility for the regulation of professions through provincial legislation, in most cases it does not apply the legislation on a day- to-day basis. The government delegates day -to-day governance responsibilities to each of the regulatory bodies. The staff of the regulatory bodies possesses the appropriate knowledge about the practice of the profession to determine licensure qualifications, if necessary, and to apply appropriate disciplinary measures.”

ROLE OF SELF-REGULATING PROFESSIONAL ASSOCIATIONS¹

“Each professional regulatory body has a governing council or board elected by the membership as well as government-appointed public representatives. The council acts on behalf of the regulatory body and is responsible for applying the legislation.

Larger professions (e.g., College of Physicians and Surgeons of Saskatchewan) may, in addition to the regulatory body, have advocacy and/or union counterparts (e.g., Saskatchewan Medical Association) that lobbies on behalf of the membership of that profession.

Regulatory bodies are responsible for protecting the public by:

- setting entrance qualifications;
- establishing standards of practice;
- establishing continuing education and/or competency requirements; and
- administering an investigation and disciplinary process to adjudicate complaints of professional incompetence or misconduct.

The regulatory body is responsible to the government and ultimately the public. As the governing body which ensures protection of the public interest, council needs to be responsive and open to public views.

Increasingly, the public is demanding that professional regulatory bodies be more accountable for their members’ actions. Over the years the Saskatchewan Ministry of Health has responded by introducing a series of new provisions into its health professions regulating legislation.

Typically these include:

- more public representation on the association boards;
- increased accountability for administrative and regulatory bylaws and reporting;

- more transparency; and
- accessible reporting.

The regulatory body to which you are appointed is expected to provide you with a specific orientation to their profession that would include copies of all relevant legislation and bylaws as well as policies related to expectations of council/board members (e.g., Code of Ethics).”

ROLE OF PUBLIC REPRESENTATIVES¹

- “As a participating council member, public representatives ensure that the profession acts fairly, follows the Act and its bylaws, and fosters appropriate standards of practice and professional ethics.
- Although they are not members of the regulatory body itself, public representatives are appointed by the government as full members of the council of the regulatory body with the same powers and responsibilities, including the right to vote.
- Every member of council has the responsibility to regulate in the public interest rather than the interest of the profession. However, public representatives have this as their sole purpose. Public representatives are not expected to be, indeed are not supposed to be, technically expert or experienced in the specific profession. Public representatives must be team players on council but they must also bring the public perspective to the table using sound judgment and common sense to keep the broad public interest front and centre.
- Public members participate in all activities of the council and its committees to which they are appointed under the applicable Act, including participation in the discipline committee.
- Public representatives may also participate in meetings with members of the public and in public forums, and may be asked to prepare a message in the regulator’s annual report that is submitted to the Minister of Health. Periodic contact with officials from the Ministry of Health and public representatives on other professional councils will also likely occur”.

III. LEGISLATION

PROFESSION-SPECIFIC LEGISLATION¹

“Profession-specific regulation of health professions is done primarily through individual profession-specific statutes. Since the late 1990s, the Saskatchewan Ministry of Health has instituted a template approach to new or amended statutes, which provides for consistent rules for health professions in Saskatchewan. Saskatchewan has enacted one piece of related professions umbrella legislation, The Dental Disciplines Act, which follows the template and includes six related professions (dentists, dental therapists, dental hygienists, dental assistants, dental technicians, denturists), each with its own association under a single act.

Saskatchewan’s legislation allows for overlapping scopes of practice. It does not usually grant a profession an exclusive scope of practice, because it is recognized that members of more than one profession may undertake similar tasks. When legislation does provide for exclusive scope of practice, it may include exemptions allowing other professions to perform some specific activities within that scope.”

Each provincially regulated health profession in Saskatchewan has legislation specifically governing its actions (e.g. The Registered Nurses Act, 1988). Legislation specific to the regulation of speech-language pathologists and audiologists in Saskatchewan is available on the CSASK Website:

The Speech-Language Pathologists and Audiologists Act

CSASK Bylaws

CSASK Code of Ethics

OTHER RELEVANT LEGISLATION¹

The Labour Mobility and Fair Registration Practices, SS 2022.

- Administered by the Ministry of Immigration and Career Training.
- Outlines timeframes for registration decisions by Saskatchewan regulatory bodies, registration application requirements, qualification assessment processes and internationally-trained recognition pathways.

The Regulated Health Professions Act \(A new legislative framework\)

- This “umbrella legislation” will replace the existing profession-specific Acts with a common legislative framework for the regulation of all self-governing health professions in Saskatchewan. The Regulated Health Professions Act (RHPA) provides for a minimum regulatory framework across all professions while recognizing that each profession is unique and requires profession-specific subordinate regulations.
- The RHPA received Royal Assent on May 13, 2025, but has not yet come into force. Implementation will occur over several years and will involve ongoing consultation and collaboration with the Ministry of Health and other Saskatchewan health regulators to develop supporting regulations, bylaws, policies and processes.
- Currently, all existing profession-specific legislation (including The Speech-Language Pathologists and Audiologists Act) remains in place. There are no immediate changes impacting the day-to-day practice of regulated health professions at this time.

- Once the regulations and bylaws are complete, current health regulatory legislation will be repealed, and replaced by the RHPA. Notification will be provided to registrants.

The Evidence Act (Apology provision)¹

“In May 2007, Saskatchewan joined British Columbia and Manitoba in legislatively recognizing the value of an apology. The amendment to The Evidence Act allows people and organizations to make a sincere apology without fearing legal liability in an existing or potential civil action. An apology no longer constitutes an admission of fault and is not admissible as evidence in a court proceeding.”

The Health Information Protection Act (HIPA)¹

“The Health Information Protection Act (HIPA) is designed to regulate the privacy of personal health information while ensuring adequate sharing of information is possible to provide individuals with services to monitor, evaluate and improve the health system in Saskatchewan.”

For more information about the collection, use, disclosure and protection of personal health information under HIPA, please visit <https://www.saskatchewan.ca/>

VALUE STATEMENT

Newly appointed College of Speech-Language Pathologists and Audiologists (CSASK) council members are provided with orientation and mentorship to support informed decision-making that aligns with the college's mandate and strategic directions.

POLICY

Newly appointed council members will be provided with an orientation to council and given the opportunity to be mentored by an outgoing council member, of the same position. Mentorship and orientation provide opportunities to learn about council responsibilities and legislation as well as to assist members to feel more comfortable and confident in informed decision making. Mentorship supplements the orientation and supports the new member by providing access to a resource person to answer questions and review materials as needed.

Regular council evaluations are conducted to assess the effectiveness of the orientation and mentorship experience in terms of:

- understanding the organizational goals and strategic directions;
- understanding key governance principles;
- creating a supportive and positive environment for all council members.

Collecting feedback at regular points throughout a council member's term builds engagement and allows opportunities for ongoing improvements to the council onboarding process.

PROCEDURE

Prior to their first meeting, new council members will:

- be welcomed to the council by the chair;
- participate in orientation delivered by the Executive Director/Registrar (EDR) on the following topics:
 - Principles of governance and self-regulation;
 - General council and position-specific responsibilities;
 - CSASK background and history;
 - Current issues facing CSASK;
 - Relationship between CSASK staff, council and committees;
 - Strategic directions set by council; and
 - Council meeting procedures.
- be provided with contact information for the outgoing council member of the same position.
- attend a virtual or in-person introduction with the outgoing council member (facilitated by the EDR). When this is not possible, incoming council members will be connected with other council members to facilitate a mentorship opportunity;
- access and familiarize themselves with the council digital fileshare system;

- review the Governance Manual and other key documents (legislation etc.)
- review additional training resources and reading materials (governance webinars, articles, etc.);

Evaluation

- When required, an evaluation survey will include a section for new council members on orientation and mentoring.
- Evaluations will be conducted throughout a council member's term of office to capture feedback as the member becomes increasingly acquainted with their role and the college.
- Surveys will be distributed electronically and according to the following schedule:
 1. Survey #1 - Following council orientation and initial connection with mentor.
 2. Survey #2 - Following the first council meeting/strategic planning meeting.
 3. Survey #3 - At the conclusion of the council member's first year.
 4. Survey #4 - At the conclusion of the council member's term.
- Survey responses must not be anonymous, thus allowing the EDR or Council Chair to follow up with the respondent to gain further insight.
- Survey feedback will be destroyed (deleted) once operational improvements have been made to the council orientation process. De-identified feedback may be retained for longer periods or permanently for historical reference.
- CSASK staff will distribute the survey with a defined due date for responses.
- Information will be reviewed by the EDR and Council Chair and proposed revisions will be made to the survey questions, policy or orientation processes, as required.

CONDUCTING OR PARTICIPATING IN VIRTUAL MEETINGS

VALUE STATEMENT

The College of Speech-Language Pathologists and Audiologists of Saskatchewan (CSASK) values facilitating opportunities for engagement with stakeholders.

Although face-to-face meetings are often preferred, CSASK believes that with guidelines, it is possible to work effectively and productively via virtual meetings. Virtual meetings can present a number of advantages including cost-savings and increased meeting attendance and participation across long distances.

POLICY

CSASK shall utilize tele/videoconference technology that permits all participants to communicate adequately with each other during the meeting. Videoconference or a combination of video/teleconference is preferred to teleconference alone. An individual so participating in a meeting, is deemed to be present at the meeting.

PROCEDURE

1. Meeting Preparation:

- Send the agenda and meeting materials at least 5 days prior to the meeting. Consider topics and whether they can be effectively discussed in a virtual setting (i.e. complex or controversial topics).
- Ensure you have the necessary equipment to participate virtually.
- Test equipment prior to the meeting and open the meeting at least 10 minutes prior to start time to allow participants to log-in early and ensure equipment is functioning.
- Ensure your setting is properly lit and free of any extraneous noises or distractions.
- Arrange for technical support to be available on the meeting date.
- Monitor emails prior to the meeting to identify last minute regrets or those requiring technical support.

2. During the Meeting:

- Keep your camera on throughout the duration of the meeting.
- Consider announcing your name prior to speaking if there are a large number of attendees to make it easier for participants and the recorder to determine who is speaking.
- Use the “mute” feature when you are not speaking to eliminate extraneous noises.
- Keep side conversations to a minimum.

- Facilitators/Chairs must:
 - Use round-robin process for discussions to avoid having a few people dominate the conversation and to allow quiet individuals a chance to provide input.
 - Ensure that those attending by teleconference are provided with an opportunity to participate.

HONORARIA FOR COUNCIL & STANDING COMMITTEE MEMBERS TO ATTEND APPROVED CSASK ACTIVITIES

SECTION

V Governance Policies and Procedures

DATE OF ISSUE

AUTHORIZATION

Council Meeting:
May 27, 2026

VALUE STATEMENT

The College of Speech-Language Pathologists and Audiologists of Saskatchewan (CSASK) Administrative Bylaws require council to hold no fewer than five meetings during the year in addition to the Annual General Meeting. Council members are required to be in attendance, in person or by teleconference, at these meetings in order to constitute a quorum for voting purposes; voting processes are required to run the affairs of the regulatory body. On occasion, committee chairs and/or committee members may also be asked to attend council meetings to discuss particular points of CSASK business or workshops that relate to the ongoing activities of the committee.

The honoraria for council members was established on the principle that registrants should not incur financial hardship when becoming involved in the work of the regulatory body. CSASK acknowledges the costs associated with participating in council and council-related activities. However, there is no assumption that the council or committee members receive compensation for participation. All council members are expected to invest time to prepare for meetings and therefore all council members are eligible to request honoraria.

POLICY

In recognition of the time and expertise that council members offer to their position, the following combined honoraria has been developed. The combined honoraria includes both meeting honoraria and recognition honoraria.

Public Representatives Appointed by the Lieutenant Governor in Council:

The honoraria as described in this policy, does not apply to government-appointed public representatives. Public representatives receive remuneration from the Saskatchewan Ministry of Health and are not eligible for the CSASK meeting or recognition honoraria. Nevertheless, all council members are expected to display consistent meeting attendance, active participation during meetings, responsiveness to emails or requests for information, and fulfillment of service commitments. Any concerns with public representative behaviour or performance will be first addressed by the chair directly with the public representative. Any ongoing concerns will be reported directly to the Ministry of Health.

Meeting Honoraria:

For council meetings, appointed council members may request a meeting honorarium of $125.00 for a half-day (four hours or less) or $250.00 for a full day (more than four hours).

For council members or statutory committee members who attend other required CSASK activities, an hourly rate of $31.25 will apply. Required CSASK activities, must be pre-approved by the CSASK Chair and may include attending conferences/workshops with the purpose of representing CSASK and attending education sessions (at the request of CSASK council).

Note:

- Honoraria does not apply to council member attendance on CSASK committees
- Honoraria does not apply for short council meetings scheduled outside of the annual council meeting schedule.

Recognition Honoraria:

After the Annual General Meeting, the following recognition honoraria are paid to council members in recognition of the time and effort required for their service:

- The Vice Chair, Chair and Past Chair positions receive $1,200 each.
- The Council Member positions receive $600 each.

PROCEDURE

1. Council members/committee chairs requesting the meeting and recognition honorarium will complete a Request for Honorarium Form which can be obtained from the Council Teams FileShare and submitted to office@csask.ca.
2. Meeting honoraria requests must be submitted within two weeks of a council meeting, with Executive Director/Registrar discretion for approval of late submissions.
3. Any deviation from the approved budget must be approved by council.
4. Council members receiving honoraria exceeding $500 will be issued a T4 slip reporting their honorarium payments for the entire calendar year. As per CRA requirements, CPP and income tax deductions will be applied to all honoraria payments.
5. Recognition honoraria is contingent on consistent meeting attendance, active participation during meetings, responsiveness to emails or requests for information, and fulfillment of service commitments. CSASK council members are expected to consistently demonstrate CSASK values in carrying out the duties of their council position. When gaps have been identified in attendance or fulfillment of duties, a council member's recognition honorarium may be subject to approval by council and may be reduced to reflect the extent to which position-specific duties were completed throughout the year.

POLICY No. 16 SECURITY OF RECORDS

POLICY

The College of Speech-Language Pathologists and Audiologists (CSASK) respects the federal Personal Information Protection and Electronic Documents Act (PIPEDA) and the provincial Health Information Protection Act (HIPA) privacy legislation and wishes to voluntarily comply with its ethical obligations under these Acts. CSASK shall maintain and enforce a framework for the protection and management of all organizational records.

PROCEDURES

Data Protection Strategies

I. Physical Security Measures:

- Shut and lock doors and cabinets as required;
- Keep building passes/key fobs secure, if issued;
- Confidential and sensitive information must be inaccessible to members of the public and not left—even for short periods—where they might be looked at by unauthorized persons.
- Records will be on-site wherever possible. When records must be taken off-site, they should be kept secure at all times.
- Lock computer screens and electronic devices when left unattended.
- Laptops are stored in locked cabinets/drawers at the end of each workday.
- Cameras are installed on the outside of the office entry with live monitoring available to staff.
- The office is equipped with an alarm system with unique codes for each staff member.

II. Retention and Disposition of Records

- Retention and disposition procedures are outlined in the relevant CSASK policy.

III. WIFI Networks

- When outside of the office network, utilizing a hotspot from one's cell phone is required, with the use of public wifi as an urgent, last-resort.
- CSASK computers should always be protected by a firewall and have current security patches/updates applied.
- Personal computers should never be used to access CSASK data over public wifi network.

IV. Access Controls

- Access to records is granted based on an individual's role and responsibilities.

- Electronic access to file storage is reviewed during the onboarding process and access is revoked during staff, council and committee offboarding or when a committee or working group is dissolved.
- File logging and auditing is enabled to track when a record is accessed, by whom, and whether the accessing individual has the necessary authorization;
- Enable a service to manage, secure, and protect corporate devices, and data (a unified endpoint management).
- Each user should attempt to maintain the security of data at its classified level even if technical security mechanisms fail or are absent.
- Vendors (e.g. IT support personnel) with remote access to the network will only be enabled during the time period the access is required and will be disabled once access is no longer required.
- All employees will have access to confidential information and therefore will undergo criminal record checks prior to commencing employment with the college.
- Where possible access to documents is provided through secure links, rather than attachments to emails.
- Data should be encrypted wherever possible (in transit and at rest).
- All workstations, servers, software, system components etc. must have up-to-date system security patches installed to protect the asset from vulnerabilities and utilize firewalls where possible.

V. Training and Awareness

- Employees must participate in cybersecurity training during the onboarding process and at regular intervals throughout employment.
- Signed confidentiality agreements that outline expectations surrounding collecting, using, or disclosing personal, sensitive or confidential information.
- Employees must exercise sound judgement and take reasonable steps to prevent unauthorized access to confidential information.
- Employees may use CSASK email, internet, and IT resources only for legitimate CSASK business and limited incidental personal use. They must not create, access, store, or transmit unlawful, discriminatory, harassing, defamatory, pornographic, obscene, threatening, hateful, or otherwise inappropriate material, nor use resources for personal commercial activity or to bypass security controls.

VI. Password Protection

- Passwords are considered confidential data and must be changed at regular intervals.
- Strong passwords must always be used where possible, employing a mix of numeric, alpha and special characters.
- Devices should have password-protected log-out enabled to prevent casual viewing of confidential or sensitive information by others;
- IDs or passwords must not be disclosed to other people. If other members have a need to access records, appropriate access should be organized for them.
- IDs or passwords should not be left unsecured.
- IDs and passwords must be revoked as soon as authorized users resign, are dismissed or their term comes to an end;
- Unique passwords must be setup for new users and the users prompted to change the password on first login.

VII. Multi-Factor Authentication (MFA)

- MFA is enabled for all users wherever possible.

VIII. Breach and Incident Reporting

- Any suspected or actual security breach must be reported immediately to the Executive Director/Registrar and IT support (clicking on a suspicious email, visiting an unauthorized webpage, having a computer or mobile device go missing, etc.).
- Maintain up-to-date anti-virus protection on computer systems.
- Ensure data backup intervals and methods, and disaster recovery plans, are in place and periodically reviewed;
- E-mails with unexpected attachments should not be opened. Verify the legitimacy of any such emails through a method outside of email (i.e. calling the sender, speaking to them in person, etc.) Unexpected, suspicious emails should be deleted. No one should forward any e-mail, which they suspect may contain a virus. Other staff members must be notified of suspicious emails in case the email was distributed to multiple recipients in the college.

Council Meeting:

VALUE STATEMENT

An effective risk management strategy is an essential part of the governance framework of the College of Speech-Language Pathologists and Audiologists (CSASK). Effective risk management supports the college in fulfilling its mandate of public protection by minimizing risk and potential negative impacts to CSASK operations. Well-defined risk policies and procedures outline a structured approach to managing risk management that is appropriate for the CSASK's size and complexity.

DEFINITIONS

Risk Appetite – The overall willingness of the college to accept a defined amount of risk to achieve its strategic objectives.

Risk Impact – The potential severity and consequence a risk could have on an organization if it materializes (e.g. financial loss, physical harm, etc.). Impact is measured at low, moderate, or high level of impact.

Risk Likelihood – The probability or chance of a risk occurring. Likelihood is measured at low, moderate, or high probability of occurrence.

Risk Register – A living document that serves as a repository of all risks identified, the nature of each risk (impact and likelihood of occurrence) and any mitigation measures.

Risk Tolerance – The level of risk (and deviation from the risk appetite) that the college deems acceptable around specific objectives or risk categories.

POLICY

CSASK accepts that a level of risk is inherent in all activities and is contextually based. CSASK incorporates a consistent approach to risk identification, assessment, monitoring and reporting to support informed decision-making and resource allocation in alignment with the college's mission and strategic directions. Ongoing, risk-based discussions ensure that CSASK is poised to anticipate and respond to changing environments and leverage new opportunities.

Risk Appetite Statement – CSASK maintains a low risk tolerance with a strategic focus on:

- continuous improvement,
- accountability to the Saskatchewan government and public; and
- protection of the college's assets and resources.

If risk levels rise beyond acceptable thresholds (i.e. the risk tolerance is exceeded), CSASK will take action to reduce them to acceptable levels.

PROCEDURE

I. Risk Identification and Assessment:

- CSASK staff and volunteers will report any identified risks/opportunities to the CSASK Executive Director/Registrar.
- On an annual basis, CSASK council will facilitate a review of internal (e.g. staff and committee information) and external sources (e.g. environmental, legislative changes, etc.) to identify potential risks/opportunities or changes to existing risks to the college. For each risk/opportunity identified, CSASK council will measure the potential likelihood and impact and assign the risk to the relevant category (detailed in Table 1.0).
- Risks shall be assessed by evaluating both their potential impact and their potential likelihood, with priority given to those posing the greatest threat to the college and the highest probability of materializing.

Table 1.0 - Risk Categories
Operational Risks	Associated with the college's day-to-day operations or processes.
Financial Risks	Associated with the college's financial stability, profitability and ability to meet its financial obligations.
Reputational Risks	Associated with the college's reputation or public perception.
Strategic Risks	Associated with the college's ability to achieve its strategic goals and objectives.
Security Risks	Associated with threats and vulnerabilities to the college's information and systems.
Compliance (legal) Risks	Associated with the college's compliance with applicable laws, regulations or policies, which may result in legal action/disputes.
External Risks	Associated with the college's broader environment or originating from outside of the college.

II. Risk Management:

- A risk action plan will be developed outlining the response strategies to manage identified risks to an acceptable level, when possible. Potential risk response strategies are detailed in Table 2.0.

Table 2.0 - Risk Response Strategies
Acceptance	Choosing to accept or tolerate a risk while continuing to monitor the situation. Commonly seen with low probability or impact risks, where the risk, or potential negative consequence of taking action outweighs the potential benefits.
Mitigation	Implementing strategies or internal controls to lessen the impact or likelihood of occurrence of a risk.
Transfer	Sharing or shifting the responsibility of the risk to a third party; often reflected in the formation of contractual agreements or insurance policies.
Avoidance	Eliminating exposure to a risk by withdrawing from situations or activities that can negatively affect an organization.

III. Risk Reporting and Monitoring:

- The Executive Director/Register is responsible for maintaining the risks register by recording progress of risk mitigation strategies, effectiveness of controls, and overall risk status.

- CSASK council ensures ongoing risk oversight by periodically reviewing the risk register and engaging in risk-based discussions as required. The risk register is reviewed by council as part of the consent agenda of each council meeting.
- Risk management is embedded in strategic planning, policy development and operational procedures to ensure that risks are systematically considered in all major decisions and to foster a risk-aware culture.

VII. CONDUCT AND DISCIPLINE PROCESSES

DISCIPLINARY PROCESS¹

“A general description of professional misconduct and professional incompetence is stated in the legislation governing an association. However, the association often expands on these definitions in its bylaws.

The disciplinary process is an important part of a professions’ legislation because it offers the public an opportunity to have its complaints heard against professionals. Public representatives are typically appointed to discipline committees.

The regulatory body must have tools necessary to act effectively on public complaints. Regulators must look into public complaints and inform the complainant of the results of the investigation and discipline hearing. The member must also be dealt with fairly and be given an opportunity to be heard.

Typically, the discipline process has two stages: an investigative stage and a hearing stage.

A complaints or investigation committee will investigate complaints if they relate to professional misconduct or incompetence. After its investigation the committee prepares a report on whether a discipline hearing should be held or not. There must be enough evidence to warrant a hearing.

The discipline committee hears the case and determines whether the member is guilty or not. If guilty, the committee may assess several penalties including suspension, expulsion, restrictions on practice and/or retraining. Fines and costs associated with the discipline process may also be imposed upon the member by the discipline committee.

Complainants can attend hearings, and discipline hearings are open to the public. The committee may notify the employer of a disciplined professional or the public when it has disciplined a member. The discipline committee usually has the power to subpoena records and witnesses in carrying out its hearing.”

APPEALS¹

“The member has the right to appeal a decision of the disciplinary committee to the council. If the member is not satisfied with the decision of council, there is also the right to appeal that decision to the court, typically the Court of Queen’s Bench. The court has the authority to determine whether the decision and penalty imposed by the council is appropriate. If the court overturns the decision of the council, it may direct a new hearing by the discipline committee.”
